Goal:
To support teachers in reaching and teaching “stuck” kids.

So that teachers .....

- Understand each student in their classroom beyond his/her ability to perform academically.
- Understand why some kids come to school unreachable and unteachable.
- Develop new ways to respond and react to what students do and say.
- Learn new techniques, strategies, and interventions that enhance and preserve the student-teacher bond and make it possible for the student to be ready to learn.

So that students....

- Are able to meaningfully connect with their teachers and engage in authentic classroom experiences that enrich learning.

Overview:

A healthy relationship between teacher and student is beneficial for the student who is ready to learn but it is essential for the troubled or stuck student. There is no other way to get learning for these students: the teacher has to lead the way. This workshop is designed to support teachers as they collaboratively journey toward teaching and learning excellence in their own classrooms.
